- Duty, responsibility or involvement - While focused on your personal involvement, this also includes responsibilities for your active supervision of matters assigned to subordinates. These terms don't include purely clerical efforts or general support not related to a particular Boeing matter.
- A government or military Service - This includes any branch of the U.S. Government, and state, local and non-U.S. governments. Military Service includes any U.S. military branch, reserve or national guard component and state or non-U.S. equivalents. It includes your service as an employee, officer, military member, special government employee, government consultant, government advisor, or a contractor employee loaned to the Government. If you work for a contractor but act as a government SETA (systems engineering technical analysis employee) with responsibilities for the government related to Boeing interests, please check "yes."
- Matter - This can include contracts, claims, controversies, requests for action, rulings, investigations, recommendations or other subjects that have been under your consideration.
- Involving or affecting the Interests of Boeing - "Boeing" means any part of Boeing. Predecessor companies that became part of Boeing are included, such as Rockwell space and defense operations, Hughes Space & Communications, McDonnell Douglas and others. "Involving or Affecting Boeing Interests" means business or financial interests. Contracts, safety rulings, program duties, funding decisions, audits, investigations, trade issues, claims, export licenses, product approvals, quality or inspection responsibilities, etc. can all affect such interests. Competitions or pending acquisitions likely involving Boeing are also included. Don't include situations where your only involvement was use (like flying a Boeing F/A-18) or service of Boeing products (such as maintaining an Apache helicopter).
- Significantly - Personal and substantial involvement.
- Contract - This includes any contract, whether awarded competitively or non-competitively and whether with Boeing or another company.
- Accounting Firm - Any Registered Public Accounting Firm that has been appointed by the Audit Committee of the Company's Board of Directors to perform an audit, review, or attestation of the financial statements of the Company, its subsidiaries or its employee benefit plans that are filed with the SEC or equivalent non-U.S. government agency.
- Business Partner – A member of a business association in which the profits and losses are shared.
- Public Interest Organisation: includes but is not limited to organisations such as the International Civil Aviation Authority, the World Trade Organisation, the World Bank or the International Monetary Fund.
